Who I Am: Understanding the Creative Power Within Dianne Rosena Jones

This dissertation seeks to awaken all to the truth, the truth of “who we are.” With this truth comes the eradication of illusions and the activation of endless possibilities. The truth is, we are not separate from God; in fact, God’s creative power lives within each one of us. Awakening to this truth not only turns the victim into the victor, but it turns the victim into a transformer.

This topic is vital to the Metaphysician because it is the very foundation upon which we assist our clients in taking responsibility for the way their lives unfold each day. We can facilitate the activation of their creative power and encourage them to reach their destiny. It all begins with knowing “Who I Am” and knowing what lies unexpressed within—realizing there is light and love already built in. But we have to believe in it, embrace it, nurture it, and most of all use it. It is like having an extension cord on the floor next to an electrical outlet. It is a channel for power, but useless unless we plug it in.
