Joseph was shocked at the divine knowledge that Jesus possessed. The Good Samaritan was his father. He knew that the guilty holy men were present in the temple that day.

He watched as Holy Ghost conviction came upon the two merciless men. They wept bitterly. They tore their garments like men in mourning. And then they rushed out of the temple as if angelic fiery swords were dispelling their unworthy hides.

But then Joseph understood even more. The message of the Lord was for him. Jesus was telling Joseph that the Gentiles were accepted as the beloved. His father's people and the rest of the world were loved by God just as much as the Israelites!

When the Lord passed by him toward the Mount of Olives, He paused and looked at Joseph before He said, "Like Me, you are no longer just the son of your earthly father. You are Barnabas; the son of prophecy, exhortation, acceptance, consolation, and encouragement. You will live long and prosper."
