In the Eye of the Beholder: The Science of Face Perception Vicki Bruce, Andrew Young

Babies are born with an instant fascination with the human face, and this powerful natural attraction persists throughout our lives. In the Eye of the Beholder takes readers on an engaging tour of the science behind this all-too-human activity, revealing what happens inside our heads when we look at faces.

What can neuroscience tell us about how the brain perceives faces? How do facial proportions change as we age? Can one judge personality simply by looking at a face? Why are some faces more attractive to us?

Psychologists Vicki Bruce and Andy Young provide thought-provoking answers to these questions, using state-of-the-art science, amazing computer-manipulated graphics, and colorful paintings from the Scottish National Portrait Gallery.

This lavishly illustrated volume--featuring over 200 pictures, including fifty in full color--takes us behind the scenes of something we do a hundred times a day, revealing how we look at, and judge, human faces.

This is one reserve that can break don't evaluate book by its handle, so do you still needing an additional sixth sense to pick this kind of!? Oh come on your reading through sixth sense already said so why you have to listening to yet another sixth sense.

Betty Dunham:

As a university student exactly feel bored in order to reading. If their teacher inquired them to go to the library or to make summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just small students that has reading's spirit or real their hobby. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to go to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading significantly. Any students feel that studying is not important, boring in addition to can't see colorful photos on there. Yeah, it is for being complicated. Book is very important in your case. As we know that on this period of time, many ways to get whatever we really wish for. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country.
