Ivory skinned Mary-Anne Gerard is the only daughter of the Earl and the fairest maiden in Bridlington. Her beauty works like magic and even Fredrick James, the Duke of Bridlington cannot resist himself from falling in love with her. But before Fredrick gets a chance to express his sentiments to her, he finds out about her engagement with Marquis Cecil Rollo. Mary-Anne is fond of Cecil and they both desire to get married to each other.

Heartbroken and dejected, Fredrick James continues with his life. But even at twenty-five years of age, he is unable to find someone as attractive and ingenuous as Mary-Anne. Hearing about how exultant Mary-Anne is with Cecil, Fredrick decides to let fate decide what is best for him. Romantic and awash with pain and deceit, this story explores the passion of love and destiny.
