First of all, personality and style are intertwined. In order to enhance your personality, it is important to keep updating your style from time to time. This process of revising, revamping and maintaining your style/appearance is also known as personal grooming which is very significant in our society. Style and Fashion is a matter of personal choice but the way we incorporate it into our personality plays a very crucial role in leaving a strong impact on others.

Uncover the crucial things a woman needs to sense about your personality before she will ever consider being with you physically. If you have ever had a good date or too with a woman and then you ended up never seeing her again, it's probably because you failed to convey one or two of these important traits. I'll show you how to convey this powerful attribute quickly and easily so women can sense it.

Second of all, Personal Hygiene holds a lot of weight for men as well as women who wish to impress the opposite sex. A shabby & insanitary appearance is a total turn-off. In order to avoid falling in awkward situations due to displeasing personality and poor styling sense, you need to be absolutely certain to steer clear of the most common fashion misconceptions.

Up until a few years back, it was only women who paid a lot of attention to detail when it came to personal grooming and fashion sense, whereas men didn't care much about their individual grooming and presentation skills. But in the present day and age, you will notice both the sexes being equally conscious about their physical appearance. This change has come about as a direct consequence of a significant shift in people's attitude and perception on this particular topic. Today, you may find more than 80% of the crowd (men & women) to be well-dressed or at least presentable because they have a basic understanding about the acceptable dress code in our society.

Third of all, if you really want to impress the opposite sex, you have to give in your best efforts at achieving a perfect body, acquiring the best attire and carrying it off with the perfect attitude. These are the three most important aspects of personal grooming which must be enhanced to the core.
