Crystal Conscience: Is your conscience your conscience or is God trying to tell you something? Darleen Williams

In this story I have embellished things to make my topic interesting and funny, but the conclusion of the book is my reality. We must live life as if there is no turning back, and our conscience should be our guide because God is guiding us at all times. The key to this story is “Choices and Consequences.” With every choice in life there are consequences Good and Bad. Therefore, the morale of this story is to always try to make good choices then you won’t have bad or unwelcomed consequences. But, in life this is hard to do. In other words it’s easier said than done. However, in the story you will see that is incorrect, because I will show you how if given the chance to change situations in your life nothing can ever be the right choice. In reality, we cannot undo situations in our life by rubbing a magic rock or just wishing it away. When we think about decisions our conscience sometimes tells us to do or not to do things and ultimately we have the final say so. But what if life was like our conscience; meaning, if we make a decision to do something, or act on something and we didn’t like the outcome of our first choice then we could simply say I’ll try this situation differently, sounds too good to be true, well it isn’t. It is a known fact that when we make choices in life it is just that a CHOICE. No, we can’t change the outcome to a particular situation but we can change it the second, third or maybe fourth time around. For example, we learn from our mistakes, well, is it really a mistake if it was our choice, no, it is God’s way of teaching us. Now if it is a wrong choice and we did it again and again then it is a mistake on our part. Our conscience tells us not to do certain things at the time we do them; however, we still do what we think is best and complain and beat ourselves up about how we should have or could have done it differently. This may seem confusing but after you read this book you will understand what I mean. Now, enjoy, think, and allow your imagination to take over as you indulge in this wonderful story that I have created for you. Hope this book Create-A-Smile for you as well as teach you that life does have consequences Always! The main purpose of this story is to Remember to love yourself first and foremost and then it would be easy to Love others because you will come to an understanding that if “God can Love Me” after all I did, then surely I can Love others who may or may not have done nothing to me. We must understand that to truly Love ourselves means to truly Love God and others regardless of their faults. If you practice this in your everyday life then you will experience a “Peace” that you cannot get from any human being. Finally, remember you will fall again but the Key is to remember that it is never too late to get back up again, because a Child of God is just a sinner who can get back up again, again, again, and again! You see if we take a few minutes in our daily life and really examine each day we will be able to see that our blessings outweigh our rough and tough times. Our choices in life don’t have to end in bad consequences just better circumstances. You see if life was really a crystal rock I would not change one thing because I am still here and I am still learning and I am still smiling and most importantly I am still holding on to God’s unchanging hands! So laugh more, love more and realize that you are going to make mistakes but know that they are not mistakes when you can learn from them. Also remember if you make a mistake, you are not a mistake because God does not make mistakes! Peace and Blessings to you all!
